For this action of the defendant be thinks that he has been injured to the extent of the damages claimed.

Trouble is browing among the dairymon and milk dealers. The pretensions made by the Alderney dairymen, and the means taken by them to advertise the milk from the Alderney dairies to the prejudice of the milk from other dairies, have induced other dealers to form a combination. A meeting has been called to-

might of all daleymen and milk dealers who do not profess to produce or sell pure Alderney milk for the purpose of forming an association, and, among other things, to urge the appointment of a milk inspector and discuss the cattle disease. A New Flag at Mount Vernon

A Bad Place to Seek a Fight. Some little excitement was occasioned in the Criminal Court chamber yesterday by a man named Ailen Woll. The room was crowded at falling parameter and rising temperature during the time, and it required all the efforts of the right of a bailiff to exercise any authority over him, and declined to obey, continuing to be bois-terous. Colonel Perry Carson ejected him from the chamber. In the lobby he became belligerent, but was promptly subdued.

The Plague in Russia.
Mr. Hasson, our Minister to Vienna, in his last dispatch to the Department of State, announces that the alarm arising from the extension and fatality of the pest in Russia is somewhat diminished, in the presence of the more forcible measures lately adopted by Russia. Her rigid and extensive quarauthes, however, have materially affected her trade. The sanitary precautions adopted in Vienna have also virtually been adopted by Germany, Hungary, Servia, and Romanda. Special appropriations have been made for the establishment of a close military condon along the Russian frontler, should the pest extend itself. An Unfortunate Regiment.

It has been frequently mentioned, says a London correspondent, in connection with the Twenty-fourth Regiment, which has had such an awful experience in Zululand, that it was cut to pieces in a jungle at Chillianwallah during the Sikh war, where its colors were captured. There has been a good deal of corsepondence in the journals about this tragieident, and, as the story is now coming out in hard facts for the first time, it is interesting as a matter of history to preserve it, as a companion picture to the one which is now so fresh in the public mind.

In his historic account of the battle, written, I believe, when he was Lord Clyde, he wrote of the incident; "The regiment displayed a devotion to duty which has been rarely equaled, ind never surpassed; it is impossible, indeed, for any troops to have surpassed Her Majesty's Twenty-fourth Feet in the gallautry displayed at the assault." In regard to the loss of the colors, they did not fall into the hands of the Sikh chief, Shere Singh. The flag which was lost was either overlooked by the victors or carried away by camp followers. TO THE PUBLIC!

WASHINGTON, March 7, 1879.

In conformity with our announcement of January 1," that great changes would be made in our business during the year," we beg to announce the same:

FIRST-We have condensed our Washington establishments, retaining the Cutters of SECOND—Our establishment (316 Seventh street) is now being greatly enlarged, and in a few this will be completed. When finished if will be the most extensive, best lighted, and altogether the finest mercantile house in the city.

THIRD—We shall retain every department, and add two new ones—namely, a Making and Trimming Department, where we will cut, make, and trim for persons who furnish their own goods; and a Jobbing Department in Woolens, where we shall offer goods by the yard to the trade and consumers. Importing DIRECT FROM MANUFACTURERS, and buying our domestic goods DIRECT FROM MANUFACTURERS' AGENTS in no less quantity than an entire piece, we are enabled to name as low figures as any jobbor in the country.

FOURTH—Our entire fourth floor will be used as a Workroom, and we shall bereafter annufacture our Custom Goods on the premises, under the direct supervision of the cutters the produce them. Ample room for 100 workmen has been provided.

FIFTH—Persons who have had accounts with us and paid their bills PROMPTLY can continue on the same terms; to those who have not done so, FURTHER CREDIT WILL BE REFUSED, and UNDER NO CIRCUMSTANCES will any NEW NAMES be placed

In the history of merchandising, probably no time more than the present is so well adapted (in view of the constantly changing values of goods) to a house having at all times a buyer in the markets, to avail themselves of the many opportunities to buy goods far below their value. As we have the outlet for the disposal of a larger quantity of goods than any other house in Washington, and as quantity in a great degree regulates price, we have undoubtedly superior advantages. Our MR, A. SAKS will devote the greater portion of his time to this branch of our business, and we propose to give our patrons the full benefit of all these advantages, and confidently anticipate that, by our offering

ALL GOODS AT CLOSE FIGURES and MANY GOODS AT LESS THAN VALUE.

TO GREATLY INCREASE OUR SALES.

In a few days the extensive improvements we are making will be so far completed as to enable us to announce the day of our

TWENTY-THIRD SEMI-ANNUAL DISPLAY

The Stock on this occasion will be the LARGEST and CHOICEST ever exhibited here.

We avail ourselves of the opportunity to thank the public for their earnest support in the past, assuring them of our determination to, at all times, merit their valued favors. Respectfully,

A. SAKS & CO.,
